TOUR STAFF

Carol Proven has been researching her family's history for 22 years by exploring records from Italy, England and Scotland. Her research has taken her to Southern Italy to visit the areas where her grandparents were born.

Ms. Proven taught Genealogy at St. Joseph's College in Patchogue. She gives genealogy workshops with power point presentations at libraries and genealogy groups in Suffolk County. In 2016, Carol started the Foxwood Village Genealogy Club in Calverton. She is a member of the Italian Genealogical Group and the German Genealogical Group.

As a member of the Huntington Historical Society, Carol serves as tour staff leader for their Genealogy group that travels every year to Salt Lake City, Utah to the Family History Library. She was co-editor of the Patchogue-Medford Library Genealogy Newsletter for ten years. Carol is a former business owner of Patchogue. She originally held a career as a Medical Office Manager in Neurology and Internal Medicine for many years.

Carol's motto is "Think outside the box and don't let a day go by without learning something new... until the last moment."

William Chamberlain has been researching his family history for 25 years. Research has primarily involved England, colonial New England, and New York State, and has also included other northeastern states, Ireland and French Canada. He has visited the Family History Library a number of times, and has researched at several state libraries and archives, National Archives facilities in the U.S. and England, the Society of Genealogists library in London, the New England Historic Genealogical Society library and various local venues. He is a member of The Huntington Historical Society, World Chamberlain Genealogy Society, Society of Genealogists (England), International Society for British Genealogy and Family History, New England Historic Genealogical Society, New Hampshire Society of Genealogists, and other national and local organizations.

William is now retired. After two years in the U.S. Army, business experience was in banking and corporate finance. Volunteer work has included as Boy Scout leader, church activities and historical society activities. He has been editor of the Huntington Historical Society Genealogy Workshop Newsletter for 23 years and is Co-Secretary of the Genealogy Federation of Long Island. He has given genealogy presentations to retiree and church groups and to the Huntington Genealogy Workshop.
